The semi-Champions from Lynchburg put up a name restering that was rusty and tail of mais. At no stage of the contest were they in it a little bit, and the manner in which their crack players bit the dust before the sphere that came from the paw of Tanuchill was a caution, and should be a note of warning for them to get up with the lark this morning and hie themselves to some semorning and hie theraselves to some se-cluded spot and enter into an earnest game of practice. In the second and third no runs were made, but when "That's-the-Roy" Berts faced the twirler for the semies, he seemed to think that he must atone for several very rocky errors that he was guilty of hast week. He came within a yard of hitting the first ball pitched, but the second one was a beauty, and Berte got onto its curves and lifted a neat two-basger, whereupon the fans forsave him for his past sins of omission and commission and fell into the most boisterous enthusiasm. He went to third on Groves' sacrifice and reached home on a hit by Tannehill. Kain beat out to first, stole second, captured third on Sholta's out and increased the score by an error of Pickering.

Lynchburg was not in the mame at all. They simply hopped around, and gared on helplessly at the fun the local boys were having with them. They may have been playing as a feeler and "laying low," for to-day. Who can tell? The game to-day will undoubtedly be contested for inch by inch, and a big crowd will be on hand to encourage the Champians. The features of the game were two doubles. Tannehill Boland and Sholta and Pender to Berte. The geore in detail follows:
